Information Development Consultants, Inc. Renews Green Business Alliance Greenified Status

Chicago SaaS technology firm implements changes in an effort to go green and boost environmental sustainability

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS – July 7, 2009 – Information Development Consultants, Inc. (iDC) announced today that it has renewed its status as a Greenified company. With the guidance of Green Business Alliance, iDC has successfully implemented specific green operating procedures that will benefit the environment and its employees through the integration of environmental stewardship into their daily business practices.

“Information Development Consultants, Inc. is committed to doing our part to help address environmental sustainability,” said Carolyne S. Turner, President of Information Development Consultants, Inc. “We are pleased that Green Business Alliance has enabled us to meet our company’s environmental goals. We believe that our work to Greenify our organization will help the environment and will provide an impressive differentiator for prospective customers who are considering using our services. Our products already provide numerous benefits to governments going green, so it was a natural progression for us to implement these guidelines internally.”

In making their company Go Green, Information Development Consultants, Inc. has made changes to its daily operations as they relate to the office environment, copying, printing, energy use and more.

“We are proud to support Information Development Consultants, Inc.’s commitment to Greenify their daily business practices,” said Hilary Kusel, Executive Director of Green Business Alliance. “The corporate community has an unprecedented opportunity to lead employees and subsequently our citizenry to a Greener future. Information Development Consultants, Inc.’s efforts demonstrate how a technology consulting firm can make a positive impact in the community and on our environment not only with the services that they provide to their customers but also with the practices within their office.”
